LYNCHBURG HORSE SHOW

It Will be One of the Very Best Ever Held in the South.

THE PROMINENT EXHIBITORS

Widely Known Men and Women Have Entered Strings of Valuable Horses.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LYNCHBURG, VA., Oct. 1.—The prospects for the third annual exhibition of the Lynchburg Horse Show Association, which will take place at the association's splendidly equipped auditorium and arena October 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th, are flattering in the extreme, and there is no doubt but the show will be one of the best exhibitions of its character ever held in the Bouth. The management started to make the Lynchburg show one of the iargest of the South. That work began at the meeting of the State Association of Horse Shows, which was held in Washington when the date was best dates in the whole circuit as no other show will be held in the United states while the Lynchburg show is on.

The association has made up one of the most attractive prize lists ever offered other show will be held in the United states while the Lynchburg show is on. The association has made up one of the most attractive prize lists ever offered in the South and the liberal prizes have succeeded in attracting a large list of well known exhibitors of state and national reputation. Every one of the forty-six classes are filled. They are well filled both as to the number of entries as well as the character of the horses to be exhibited, and there is no doubt since the entries have closed that the horses that will be exhibited here will be the largest number and most valuable that have ever appeared in the South with the possible exception of the Louisville show.

PROMINENT EXHIBITORS.

Among the most prominent Northern exhibitors will be Mrs. J. M. B. Grosvenor, of New York, who will come here by a special train from Louisville, where she will exhibit next week. Mrs. Grosvenor will bring her entire string of twenty-one harness and saddle horses. These horses, together with her traps represent an outlay of something like $150,000 and she has unquestionably the greatest string in Another prominent Northern exhibitor will be Mr. Sidney J. Holloway, of Hatsdale-on-the-Hudson, who will come with a string of ten horses, most of which are hunters of the very highest order. Mr. Holloway has been a prominent and successful exhibitor at Madison Square Garden for a number of years. Mr. Holloway will be accompanied by his sister, Miss Marion Holloway, who is always a popular rider in the ladies' classes at horse shows.

TRAINED CAVALRY TROOP.

Much interest is centering in the exhibition to be given each performance during the show by the troop of cavalry from Fort Myer, near Washington. These cavalrymen are delighted over the prospects of the trip, and they have written the of the trip, and they have written the management that they are drilling every day now in order that they may give a giltedged exhibition while here. The troop will be encamped at the horse show grounds during the week.

In this article we want to reach all parties and to deal especially with the amateur or home fruit garden list. It is possible to present a very extended list of choice varieties of apples for the family orchard, but the following 3 ilmited to those that seem necessary to a full supply covering the entire season.

This variety is such a sure grower and bearer of fire looking a sure grower and bearer of fine looking fruit that its position in commercial or charding is readily understood. The quality is abominable to anyone who knows our good Virginia apples, but it has been and still is a money-maker, However, I am more and more inclined to discourage the planting of this variety because in all our warmer fruit districts of this State it is especially subject to the leaf spot. No other variety suffers worse. Frequently fine trees full of fruit will be quite defoliated by September 1st. This can be largely prevented by spraying.

BANISTER MILLS.

The site on which Banister Mills was burned several months ago has been purchased by the Neal Brothers for $7,000 with 120 acres of adjoining land. A commodious mill building is now in course of erection on the site, and when completed will be equipped with the latest improved machinery for making patent roller flour, with a capacity of one hundred barrels per day, besides a large corn grinding capacity. When completed the cost will have nearly reached $15,000, and possibly more. Vast Coal Field.

'It is in Pike county, the terminus of the Chesapeake and Ohlo extension, and contiguous 'territory that the quality and quantity of the coal deposits excel, and it is here that a vast coal field, second to none in the country, will be developed in a few years. Thousands of tons of high-grade coking and steam coal will soon be shipped out of this territory to the markets in the North and the central West, and a line to connect with the Seaboard on the east is a possibility of the future.

'It is along the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy that the operations are about to take place, and initial work will be commenced along Elkhorn and Marrowbone creek. In the Elkhorn region 139,000 acres of coal lands have been blocked into leases which are being subleased to individuals and companies. The two principal seams and the ones that will be operated first are the upper and lower Elkhorn veins, averaging over five feet in thickness and extending over the entire county. A number of large companies own territory in the Elkhorn region, and during 1905 numerous mines will be opened up and coke ovens will be built.
